ACTIVITY REPORT

Name of the Activity	Student Faculty relationship impact on professional and personal development
Date and Time of Activity	26.10.2020 to 31.10-2020	11.00am to 1.00 pm
Details of Participants	36
Resource Person	Dr.P.Sandhya Rani
Description	Our principal greeted all the dignitaries and delegates and then gave a statement outlining the purpose of this study was to investigate the impact of student-faculty informal interpersonal relationships on student's intellectual and personal development.. The HOD emphasised the significance and goals of this faculty development project. Most experts in higher education agree that students' informal interactions with faculty members have a positive relationship to personal growth as well as academic achievement. Many studies have indicated that student outcomes are dependent on college environment. Successful students consistently rated teachers as friends, helpers, and assistants. Informal interaction of college students and faculty affects students' academic achievement, satisfaction with college, and intellectual and personal development. Following each session, participants were given a test, and those who passed were awarded certificates. During this FDP programme, participants provided comments and discussed their experiences. The Principal gave a summary report, and the guest of the event also spoke and commended the FDP team on a job well done. Finally, a vote of gratitude was suggested by the HOD to conclude the programme.
